The garden is open to the public Thursdays through Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The adjacent parking lot is open all week until dusk. Garin Regional Park

Garin Regional Park has areas for kite flying, birdwatching, barbecuing, picnicking, and fishing at picturesque Jordan Pond. Visitors can learn about ranching and farming history through interpretive signage and antique farming equipment on display. A red barn visitor center with a blacksmith shop and exhibits is open weekends in the summer. The park has a heritage apple orchard and hosts the popular Garin Apple Festival each fall.

Dry Creek Pioneer Regional Park

Located to the south, Dry Creek Pioneer Regional Park is the former ranch and summer home of sisters Edith, Mildred, and Jeanette Meyers who donated 1,200 acres to the Park District in 1978 to form the park. Together, with the cottage and garden bequeathed in 1995, the Meyers gift stands as one of the largest donations to the Park District. There are several popular loop trails and major trail connections to other parks along with the restored Meyers' Cottage and Dry Creek Garden. While the cottage is currently used as a private residence, the two-acre garden is open to the public Thursdays through Sundays. The garden is home to nearly 200 native, rare, and exotic plants, with something in bloom just about every day of the year.

Bay Area Ridge Trail/ Walpert Ridge

In 2012, the Park District added 990 acres of land to these parks with the protection of ecologically significant and visually stunning Walpert Ridge. There is now a Bay Area Ridge Trail connection from Dry Creek Pioneer park to Five Canyons Open Space in Castro Valley, through Garin Regional Park. More information and a current map to the Bay Area Ridge Trail can be found at ridgetrail.org.

Garin/Dry Creek Pioneer Regional Parks are two adjoining parks from former 19th Century ranches. The Park District has preserved the history of the parks and expanded both over the years with ecologically and historically significant ridges, trails, and open spaces. The combined parks now encompass over 5,800 acres of open space and more than 35 miles of trails through narrow valleys and rolling hills with panoramic views of the Bay Area.
