Delta de Anza Regional Trail

This trail is named to commemorate the route taken by Spanish explorer Juan Bautista de Anza during his 18th-century expedition into the Delta region of today's eastern Contra Costa County. The paved, multi-use hiking, bicycling, and equestrian trail currently spans more than 19 miles of the planned 25-mile length. When completed, it will generally follow the East Bay Municipal Utility District's corridor and the Contra Costa Water District's Contra Costa Canal.

The Delta de Anza Regional Trail offers recreation opportunities and is an alternative transportation corridor connecting communities in central and eastern Contra Costa County. It provides access to many schools, Los Medanos Community College, and to regional and community parks. The community parks have play areas for children and are excellent rest stops during longer trips, providing restrooms, drinking water, and picnic facilities.

The trail intersects the Mokelumne Trail in Antioch and the Marsh Creek Regional Trail in Oakley. It connects the cities of Concord, Bay Point, Pittsburg, Antioch, and Oakley and provides access to Contra Loma Regional Park through Antioch Community Park.

Regional Trails and Municipal Trails in Eastern Contra Costa County

The East Bay Regional Park District is steadily expanding the regional trail network that serves this rapidly growing region. The Park District is committed to providing first-class public trails for the enjoyment of the citizens of eastern Contra Costa County.

The Marsh Creek and Delta de Anza Regional Trails currently comprise over 27 miles of paved, multi-use public trailway for walkers, runners, bicyclists, and equestrians. In addition to providing exercise and recreational opportunities, these trails offer an alternative to using automobiles for light errands, for children to get to and from schools located on or near the trails, and for traveling to and from neighborhood parks, post offices and libraries.

Big Break Regional Trail adds several miles of paved, multi-use public trail along the cool Delta shoreline. This trail is well-suited for birdwatching, nature study, exercise, or for taking quiet sunrise or sunset strolls. The 3-mile trail extending from the Marsh Creek Trail is completely paved by fall 2010.

Other trails shown on this map include the Mokelumne Coast-to-Crest and American Discovery trails, the de Anza National Historic Trail, and Brentwood and Antioch municipal trails. The Mokelumne Coast-to-Crest Trail links with the Delta de Anza Trail for a 5.62-mile loop that passes through or near several schools, community parks, and a Park & Ride, in addition to providing access to Contra Loma Regional Park and Black Diamond Mines Regional Preserve. The trail has several steep inclines and is not recommended for wheelchairs access.

Marsh Creek Regional Trail

The Marsh Creek Regional Trail in easternmost Contra Costa County winds along Marsh Creek through bountiful tracts of farmland. The paved, multi-use trail is more than eight miles long and extends from the wave-lapped Delta shores of Big Break south to Concord Avenue in Brentwood. When completed, the trail will be 14 miles long and will connect the fertile Delta region with the wooded foothills of Morgan Territory Regional Preserve and the quiet serenity of Round Valley Regional Preserve east of Mt. Diablo State Park. Trail users can access several community parks and greenbelts along the way, which offer respite from mid-day summer heat.
