The waterways, tule marshes and islands of the Delta remain sacred places for many tribal groups. Our ancestors went through a lot so that we could be here today, and their perseverance is what allows us to proudly continue our story. They were very strong.

Vincent Medina, Ohlone and Bay Miwok

Vincent Medina on his Julpun homeland, with Tuyshtak (Mt. Diablo) in the distance.