Trail Description

William Penn Mott, Jr. first proposed the idea of a trail that ran around the entire ridge of the Bay Area when he was General Manager of EBRPD in the 1960s. Spurred by local support and funding, the Bay Area Ridge Trail Council was established in 1992 as a private, non-profit organization.

Over 66% of the total miles of the Bay Area Ridge Trail exist in local parks. 23% are proposed or exist on public watersheds and some short segments of public road rights-of-way or sidewalks. The remaining gaps on private land are being closed with efforts by the Ridge Trail Council through fundraising, partnerships and public policies.

The trail unites nine Bay Area counties in its entirety. EBRPD manages Alameda and Contra Costa Counties and within these, about a quarter of the entire Bay Area Ridge Trail.
