The Redwoods

This parkland is a popular stop for tourists visiting the Bay Area because the park’s entrance and parking area are set in a lush grove of fragrant, second-growth redwood trees, making it the best access to redwoods for visitors who cannot hike a long distance or have failed to pack their favorite hiking shoes. The original grove was logged between 1840 and 1860 to support the needs of a growing Bay Area.

Roberts is the location of the famous “landmark trees” noted in British Royal Navy Captain F. Beechey’s 1826 logbook. Two giant redwoods were used by sailors as navigational aids to avoid the treacherous Blossom Rock submerged in the bay between Alcatraz Island and San Francisco. Captain Beechey wrote that in order to miss the rock, one should line up the northern tip of Yerba Buena Island with “two trees ... too conspicuous to be overlooked.” The distance from the sailor’s ships to these trees was 16 miles, which attests to their size.

Today, the “landmark trees” location is marked by state historic plaque #962 near the Madrone picnic area.
